Ram Rahat-Goodman: “Refuse the Occupation”

Ram Rahat-Goodman is an Israeli Jew who served in the Israeli Defense Force from 1982-2002. In 1982, he refused to take part in the invasion of Lebanon and he has steadfastly refused to serve in the Occupied territories.

Rahat-Goodman, who lives in Jerusalem with his wife & son, is a member of Yesh G'vul (“There is a Limit”). This organization is opposed to the Israeli Occupation of Palestinian lands, because members believe that the occupation is the chief motivating factor in violence against Israelis. Yesh G’vul and the Refuser Solidarity Network provide support to the over 1250 Israeli soldiers and reservists who are acting “to end the Occupation one soldier at a time.”

We invite you to come hear Rahat-Goodman’s personal journey from soldier to “refusenik” and learn about the realities on the ground in Israel and in the Occupied Territories.

March 16th
7:00 p.m.

Jordan Hall, Room A100
IU Bloomington Campus

This event is sponsored by Bloomington Peace Action Coalition, and co-sponsored by the IU Progressive Faculty Coalition, the Peace & Justice Task Force of the Unitarian Universalist Church of Bloomington, and Students for Justice in Palestine. For more information log onto WWW.BPAC.INFO